FOR NATIONAL SECURITY—

Second Marine Division

BY MAJ. GEN. FRANKLIN A. HART, USMC
Commanding General, 2d Marine Division

TWELVE combat divisions, ten of them Army, two Marine—to every American the state of their readiness is immeasurably significant. Even now, in peacetime, they uphold our nation's far-flung commitments in Europe, the Pacific and the Mediteranean; they maintain our "posture of defense" at home; and, in the case of the two Marine divisions, they are perpetually on call to protect the overseas interests of the United States by means short of war. When war comes, these same twelve divisions must be prepared to execute the stubborn ground defense and the early counter-attacks which will surely be needed to support our allies, to retain our tenuous footholds beyond the seas, and to protect our own nation during the first critical days of mobilization. It is with these grave responsibilities in mind that I discuss here the training being conducted to assure the readiness of one major combat organization, the Second Marine Division.

Maj. Gen. Hart

The Second Division arrived at its present base of operations, Camp Lejeune, N. C., in July, 1946, after participating with conspicuous success in five major Pacific operations and the occupation of Japan. Since that date, the Division has stressed its one basic objective: the maintenance and further development of an effective, versatile fighting team, capable of amphibious and air-transported operations, and ground operations within the scope of naval campaigns. To attain this objective, the Division executes a training program which, due to normal rotation of personnel, is based upon an annual cycle. Commencing with newly joined individuals and the organizational framework with which they must be integrated, the cycle progresses through the whole gamut of training, from instruction of the individual to Division exercises in the field, from utilization of extensive local facilities to participation in Caribbean and North Atlantic maneuvers. The end result is a Marine Division at peak efficiency, prepared for any assignment.

Appropriately, the Division's "at home" training is concentrated upon individual and unit. By annual small arms firing, on-the-job training, field firing of organic weapons, unit instruction, and Division schools, the individual is taught the fundamentals and refinements of his job, whether it be that of diesel mechanic, shore party man, radio operator, or rifle-

AF Officer Integration

Revisions in the U. S. Air Force regulation governing integration of Reserve officers into the Regular Air Force as second lieutenants were announced this week.

The regulation changes will apply to the 4,000 applicants soon to be reviewed by the Secretary of the Air Force Personnel Council to the extent that those applicants who are considered generally well qualified but for whom no vacancy or particular requirement exists in the Regular Component at this time will be deferred for reconsideration. Such deferred applicants will be reconsidered without reapplying. Successful applicants among the 4,000 will be notified of their selection as soon as administratively possible following completion of action by the Personnel Council. Rejected and deferred applicants will also be notified.

Changes reflected in instructions to major Air Force commands specify that:

1. Screening and selection of applicants, normally accomplished once each year, may be accomplished more often if considered necessary to meet a particular requirement. In this connection the 15 Oct. deadline for receipt of applications at Headquarters, USAF, is no longer applicable and has been rescinded. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year that an individual qualifies.

2. An individual who has submitted two applications since 16 June 1948, when the regulation was first issued, is not eligible to reapply. Those who have previously submitted only one application may reapply after at least one year has elapsed since notification of rejection of initial

959 Army Officers Picked for Colonels

The Army this week released the names of 959 officers selected for permanent and temporary promotions to the rank of colonel.

Selected for promotion to permanent colonel were 380 Army Promotion List officers. Previously, promotions to permanent colonel of 56 Medical Corps, nine Dental Corps, eight Medical Service Corps, 10 Judge Advocate General's Corps, and five Chaplain Corps officers were announced in the 11 and 25 March issues of THE JOURNAL.

In addition to the 380 permanent promotions, 500 Army Promotion List officers were chosen for temporary advancement to colonel, as were 49 Medical Corps, five Medical Service Corps, four Veterinary Corps, 11 Dental Corps and 10 Chaplain Corps officers.

Of the 500 officers chosen for temporary advancement to colonel, 416 are Regulars and 84 are Reserve officers.

That the Army will be able to make some permanent and temporary promotions to colonel immediately is apparent from an analysis of the most recent official strength statistics available.

As of 31 Jan., the Army had 2103 permanent colonels and a total of 2672 officers serving in that grade. The authorized budget strength for fiscal year 1950 is 3098 colonels. The Army is authorized to have 2228 permanent colonels.

For the various specialist promotion lists, the latest strength status is as follows: Chaplains Corps—six permanent colonels and total of 17 in that grade; Medical Corps, 132 and 256; Dental Corps, 34 and 46; Medical Service Corps, three and 15; Veterinary Corps, 25 and 34; and Judge Advocate General's Corps, 19 permanent colonels and total of 28 serving in that grade.

The official announcement pertaining to the promotions to colonel, particularly with regard to temporary advancement, is expected to be followed in the near future by release of information on temporary promotions to lieutenant colonel and major.

As reported in last week's issue of THE JOURNAL, the Army is formulating plans for these additional temporary promotions, to be made late this Spring or in early Summer. No temporary promotions to the grade of captain are foreseen, since the Army already has an overage in that rank.

By referring to the Army Promotion List of permanent lieutenant colonels, published in the 1 April issue, JOURNAL readers will be able to ascertain added significance in the permanent promotion selections to colonel.

Today's issue contains the names of every Regular officer on the special promotion lists and thus will provide data relative to the temporary advancements to colonel in the Medical Corps, Medical Service Corps, Dental Corps, Veterinary Corps and Chaplains Corps.

Meantime, analysis of the permanent and temporary selections has revealed

Kansas City Star—"General Eisenhower has offered Congress trustworthy advice on how we can stay economically strong and still remove the specific weaknesses in our present military program."

Port Huron, Mich., Times-Herald—"Mr. Johnson, in what he called economy moves, has weakened our Armed Forces at a time when they should have been strengthened—because Russia, our potential enemy, is strengthening its armed forces."

Detroit News—"As for how much we can afford (for defense), it is idle for the President to argue that this nation is in such a state economically that we can do no more, and that for the sake of less than $1,000,000,000 we must leave ourselves wide open to a killing blow."

Syracuse Herald-Journal—"Probably we can't match the Soviets gun for gun, plane for plane, standing army for standing army, etc. But we can have armed establishments capable of turning back the enemy until America's vast resources can be brought fully into play."

Philadelphia Bulletin—"No assurances from the officials now charged with responsibility for defense can offset the opinion of General Eisenhower."

Topeka, Kans., Capital—"Men like General Eisenhower, General Bradley, Secretary Johnson and Admiral Sherman would do the country a great service if they would get together, reach some sort of an agreement embracing the views of all, and then advise Congress."

Indianapolis Star—"No better counsel than his (General Eisenhower's) is available to the President, Congress and the military. His recommendations should be followed closely in mapping defense plans for the coming critical year."

Portland Oregonian—"Since General Eisenhower now is a university president and a potential candidate for the Presidency, he would with more propriety have left expert testimony on the defense budget to General Bradley and Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson. The people must have confidence in these men, if we are not to go overboard on economy or on preparation for war. We think General Eisenhower's statement has contributed to confusion in the public mind."

Colonel Selections

Interesting data, based on the official promotion list standings as of 1 Jan. 1950.

Permanent Col. Promotions

The 380 officers of the Army Promotion List named for permanent advancement to colonel extend through No. 568 on the promotion list for permanent lieutenant colonels. This means that 188 officers were either not selected or have died, retired, resigned or otherwise been separated since the official promotion list was compiled.

The first name on the new selection list is William B. Yancey, who is No. 12 on the precedence list of permanent lieutenant colonels. He is a temporary colonel, with date of rank in that grade from 24 Dec. 1941, and holds permanent rank as a lieutenant colonel from 18 Aug. 1940. As of 30 June 1949, he had 31 years and 10 months' service for promotion purposes.

The 360th selection—No. 568 on the promotion list—is Warren S. Shelor, whose permanent date of rank is 1 July 1948, but who holds temporary rank as lieutenant colonel from 1 June 1944. On 30 June, he had 21 years and one month service for promotion credit.

Of the 11 names above Colonel Yancey on the official promotion list, seven are temporary colonels.

Temporary Col. Promotions

The No. 1 name on the list of lieutenant colonels selected for temporary advancement to the rank of colonel is Henry J. Dolton, whose name does appear on the permanent promotion list standings. Thus, it is apparent that the first selection for temporary promotion went to a Reserve officer.

The first Regular officer on the temporary promotion list is Samuel F. Cohn, whose name follows that of Lieutenant Colonel Dolton. Lieutenant Colonel Cohn is No. 18 on the list of permanent colonels. He holds permanent rank from 26 Nov. 1940 and on 30 June had 31 years and eight months' service.

The last name on the list of the 500 selections for temporary colonel is Lyman F. Stangel. He is No. 1124 on the list of permanent lieutenant colonels, as of 1 Jan. He holds permanent rank from 1 July 1948 and temporary rank as a lieutenant colonel from 19 April 1945. On 30 June, he had 19 years' service.

It is noted that Lieutenant Colonel Stangel is the last officer on the Army Promotion List of permanent lieutenant colonels who, on 30 June, had 19 years' service. All officers below him on the promotion list had less than 19 years' service on that date.

Medical Corps Temp. Cols.

As with the temporary promotions for line lieutenant colonels, the No. 1 name on the list of Medical Corps officers selected for temporary promotion to colonel does not appear on the list of Regular officers. He is Calvin H. Goddard. The second name on the list of selections is that of Joseph J. Hornisher, who is No. 8 on the list of permanent Medical Corps lieutenant colonels. He holds permanent rank from 22 Dec. 1946 and temporary rank as a lieutenant colonel from 1 Feb. 1942. On 30 June, he had 22 years and six months' service.

The last of the 43 selections for temporary colonel in the Medical Corps is Henry A. Kind, who is No. 183 on the list of permanent Medical Corps lieutenant colonels. He holds permanent rank from 1 Aug. 1948 and temporary rank from 17 Nov. 1942, with 17 years' service on 30 June.

MSC Temporary Cols.

The No. 1 name on the list of five Medical Service Corps officers selected for temporary promotion to colonel is Charles F. Cruse, who is No. 6 on the list of permanent lieutenant colonels of the MSC. He holds permanent rank from 1 July 1948 and temporary rank from 28 Oct. 1947. On 30 June, he had 21 years and eight months' service.

The last name on the MSC selection list for temporary colonel is Louis F. Williams, No. 21 on the list of permanent MSC lieutenant colonels. He holds permanent rank from 1 July 1948 also, and temporary rank from 30 Nov. 1943. On 30 June, he had 18 years and five months' service.

Veterinary Corps Temp. Cols.

The first name on the list of four Veterinary Corps officers selected for temporary advancement to colonel is Marion W. Scothorn, who is a permanent major, with date of rank in that grade from 20 July 1942, and who has held temporary rank as a lieutenant colonel from 6 April 1949. On 30 June, he had 18 years and 11 months' service for promotion.

The last of the four Veterinary Corps selections for promotion to temporary colonel is Thomas A. Ward, whose name does not appear on the promotion list of Regular officers. The third selection for temporary advancement, however, is a Regular officer. He is Robert A. Boyce, Jr., a permanent major since 12 March 1944 and a temporary lieutenant colonel since 17 June 1944, who had 17 years and three months' service on 30 June.

Dental Corps Temp. Cols.

The No. 1 name among the 11 Dental Corps officers chosen for temporary promotion to colonel is Frank P. Campbell, No. 9 on the list of permanent Dental Corps lieutenant colonels. He has held permanent rank since 1 July 1948 and temporary rank from 9 April 1947. On 30 June, he had 21 years' service.

The last name on the selection list is Alfred E. Toye, No. 29 on the promotion list of permanent lieutenant colonels, who has held permanent rank since 1 July 1948 and temporary rank from that same date. He had 18 years and five months' service on 30 June.

Chaplain Corps Temp. Cols.

The first name on the list of 10 Chaplains selected for temporary promotion to colonel is Roman J. Nuwer, who is not on the promotion list of Regular officers. Nor is the second selection, Paul H. Maurer, listed as a Regular officer. The first of the Regular Chaplains chosen for temporary promotion is Edward J. DeMars, who is No. 6 on the list of permanent lieutenant colonels, with permanent rank from 19 March 1947. On 30 June, he had 22 years and three months' service.

The last of the chaplains selected for temporary promotion is William J. Moran, No. 35 on the list of permanent lieutenant colonels of the Chaplain Corps, with date of permanent rank from 1 July 1948 and temporary rank as a lieutenant colonel from 22 April 1945. On 30 June, he had 18 years and five months' service.

Following are the colonel selections as released by the Army. The names are in order of selection, except for the list of temporary colonels, which is in alphabetical order, although the number preceding each name indicates the officer's position among the list of 500.

Cruise for Midshipmen

For the first time since 1917, midshipmen of the first (senior) class at the U. S. Naval Academy will make a "fleet cruise" this summer, reporting aboard ships of the Atlantic Fleet for duty as junior officers under instruction.

Approximately 400 of the first classmen and 950 midshipmen seniors of the Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps program will serve aboard all types of aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers, fast mine layers and attack transports in the course of normal operations.

The revival of the in-fleet training program, the Navy said, will provide advanced training to both U.S.N.A. and N.R.O.T.C. midshipmen as junior officers, as well as make additional space available to meet the heavy commitments for Reserve training during the summer months.

Two other consecutive six-week cruises of the traditional type, aboard the USS Missouri and eight destroyers, will furnish training for the remaining 340 first classmen, approximately 1020 third classmen (sophomores), and 1340 NROTC seniors and sophomores.

New Army Secretary

Secretary of the Army Frank C. Pace, jr., was sworn into office on Wednesday forenoon by Chief Justice of the United States Fred M. Vinson in a colorful ceremony at the Pentagon. In attendance were members of the Cabinet and high ranking military officers and civilian officials.

Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson presented the new Secretary with his commission as Secretary of the Army and paid a warm tribute to the retiring Secretary, Mr. Gordon Gray. Mr. Johnson read a message from former President Herbert Hoover congratulating Mr. Pace on his appointment. In a few remarks Mr. Pace also praised the record of Mr. Gray and pledged himself to administer his new office to the best of his ability.

Following the inauguration of the new Secretary the outgoing Secretary, Mr. Gray was tendered a military review at the Mall entrance to the Pentagon, in which the Army band and troops from Fort Myer participated.

At 37 Mr. Pace is one of the youngest persons ever to occupy the post of Secretary of the Army or that of Secretary of War. He was born in Little Rock, Ark., on 5 July 1912, and was graduated from High School at 14. Subsequently he attended Hill School, Pottstown, Pa., and was graduated from Princeton in the Class of 1933, where he majored in political science. He received a law degree from Harvard in 1936.

On his return to Arkansas Mr. Pace served as assistant district attorney for two years, and then became general counsel for the Arkansas State Department of Revenue. From 1941 to 1942 he was associated with his father in private law practice. He was commissioned in the Army in 1942 and in four years' service rose from second lieutenant to major. Practically all of his military service was with the Air Transport Command of the Army Air Forces.

For a short time after the war Mr. Pace was special assistant to the Attorney General of the United States in the Taxation Division of the Department of Justice. He then served for nearly two years as Executive Assistant to the Postmaster General. In 1948 he became Assistant Director of the Bureau of the Budget and a year later became Director, serving as such until his appointment as Secretary of the Army.

Praises Army Troops

General J. Lawton Collins, Chief of Staff of the United States Army, who returned this week from an inspection trip to Italy, Greece and the Near East, praised the morale and efficiency of the American troops and military missions in the countries visited.

The Army Chief of Staff was delighted with the discipline and effectiveness of American troops in Trieste which, he said, continued to set a particularly high standard of conduct and devotion to duty. He was also greatly impressed with the improvement of the armed forces of Greece, Turkey and Iran, which are using American equipment and training under American military missions.

The general said he was very gratified at the universal good will toward Americans that was evident in all of the countries of the Mediterranean and the Near East. He visited Italy, Greece, Turkey, Iran, Saudi Arabia and Egypt.

A great improvement in national spirit and morale in the past year and a half was noted particularly in Greece. The decisive defeat of the Red guerrillas, the general said, has given the Greeks not only a feeling of security previously lacking, but also hope and confidence in the future.

General Collins warmly praised the accomplishments of Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet and the other members of the United States military mission to Greece. He noted with interest the demonstrated efficiency of American Navy planes, piloted by Greek flyers, which were used effectively in close support of ground troops in the decisive fighting against Red rebels in the fastnesses of the Vitsi Mountains.

In Turkey General Collins inspected the forces being trained in the use of American equipment under the supervision of an American military mission. The general said the Turks have a splendid army and would be able to put up a tough fight in defending their country. General Collins said substantial progress was also being made by the Iranian army under American instruction.

The general said that while it was obvious that none of these countries, acting alone, would be able to put up a successful fight against an attack by a first-class power, it was clear that there had been a tremendous improvement in the defenses since they first began to receive American aid.

In the opinion of General Collins the military and economic aid to Greece, Turkey, and Iran should continue and, if possible, be increased. At the same time, he said that in his judgment it is of great importance to the security of the United States to reinforce the people of Western Europe morally, economically and with arms.

General Collins feels that our soldiers in the Mediterranean area are doing a great deal for international good will.

Enlistment Allowance

The Chief of Finance has announced that the Comptroller General of the United States in decision B-93500 dated 23 March 1950, ruled that no authority exists for the payment of an enlistment allowance to individuals serving in an indefinite enlistment which was entered into prior to 1 Oct. 1949.

The Comptroller General stated that the current provisions of law refer only to reenlistments entered into on and after 1 October 1949, the effective date of the Career Compensation Act of 1949, and hence, they contain no authority for payment of a yearly enlistment allowance to a person who reenlisted for an indefinite period prior to 1 Oct. 1949. Since the provision of the Pay Readjustment Act of 1942, as amended, which entitled a person reenlisting for an indefinite period to receive an enlistment allowance of $50.00 for each year of service was repealed by the Career Compensation Act of 1949, no right to the yearly enlistment allowance would now arise.

The Comptroller General further stated that "While it may be that the omission from the 1949 act of some provision for the payment of a reenlistment allowance or reenlistment bonus in cases such as this was inadvertent, such an omission may not be cured by interpretation but must be left to correction by the Congress."

This subject is currently under study by the Department of the Army to determine whether corrective legislation should be requested.

Army Mutual Aid

The Seventy-First Annual Meeting of the Army Mutual Aid Association was held in the Pentagon 11 April and reports for the year 1949 were presented and approved. The present assets of the Association exceed $10,000,000 with more than 86 per cent invested in Government or AAA bonds and the balance in high-grade securities. There are now more than 14,000 members diversified as to age, but with the membership averaging considerably younger than that of most of the reputable civilian companies. The low mortality trend of recent years continued during 1949 and the low expense rate of previous years also prevailed.

The following are on the Board of Directors for the succeeding year: Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, President; General Wade H. Haislip, First Vice-President; Maj. Gen. Raymond W. Bliss, The Surgeon General, Second Vice-President; Maj. Gen. Glen E. Edgerton; Maj. Gen. Edwin P. Parker, The Provost Marshal General; Maj. Gen. Ernest M. Brannon, The Judge Advocate General; and Maj. Gen. Charles L. Bolté.

The Administrative Staff consists of Col. Richard D. LaGarde, Executive Vice-President; Maj. Kenneth F. Hanst, jr., Secretary; and Col. John P. Dinmore, Treasurer.

At the meeting General Herr announced his retirement as President and as a Director after ten years' service on the Board. His resignation was accepted with regret and a resolution was unanimously adopted expressing gratitude and appreciation for General Herr's services to the Association.

Dependency Determination

Maj. Gen. Eugene M. Foster, the Army Chief of Finance, has announced that determination of dependency for the payment of basic allowance for quarters will be made in all instances by the accountable disbursing officer with two exceptions; those cases involving "loco parentis," that is, a person who stands in the place of a parent to an individual, and those involving adopted children when there are no properly certified court adoption papers. Such cases must be submitted through regular finance channels to the Comptroller General of the United States for decision.

The determinations will be made by the disbursing officer on the basis of the Delegation of Authority by the Chief of Finance for enlisted members and on the basis of the Certificate Law, Act of 26 October 1942, for officers.

The President has nominated the following officers for temporary appointment in the Army of the United States:

2d Marine Division

man. Notably successful in advanced individual training is the Division NCO Leaders Course, which develops skilled instructors and leaders by employing small group instruction methods and emphasizing practical examination and critique in the field. Unique within Marine combat units is the Division Supply School which trains enlisted personnel in supply administration. Nor is that vital phase of individual training, physical conditioning, neglected, for a diversified intra-mural and inter-mural athletic program augments such standard exercises as military and physical drill, combat swimming, and conditioning hikes in contributing to the physical fitness and morale of the command.

Individual training is followed by unit training on all levels from fire team to regiment. Consequently Camp Lejeune's fields and forests become the scene of such activities as platoon combat firing problems (conducted as proficiency tests to introduce the spice of competition), battalion night approach marches, artillery target destruction fires, and engineer company bridging operations. Thus each unit perfects its own tactics and logistics before participating with forces of combined arms in local maneuvers, wherein emphasis is placed on development of tank-infantry and air-ground teams. Aviation support is provided by the Second Marine Aircraft Wing, with whom the Division trains in close air support and in transportation of troops by air.

Beyond the confines of Camp Lejeune, training expands in many directions. Individuals receive advanced instruction from appropriate schools of all the armed services. The Atlantic Amphibious Training Command annually trains one of our reinforced infantry battalions, including its supporting shore party team, in the latest amphibious warfare techniques. The importance of such aid from other commands cannot be too highly stressed, but our units also learn by contributing to the schooling of other organizations. Each year we provide demonstration troops and instructors for the CAMID landing exercises, furnish demonstration landings for other diverse agencies, and conduct the annual refresher training of up to twelve thousand Marine Reserves. Our personnel are currently assisting with the amphibious training of the Third Infantry Division preparatory to its participation in the 1950 Caribbean maneuvers.

By virtue of the location of its base of operations, and of its normal maneuver area in the Caribbean, the Division's training is usually confined to the milder climates. During the Atlantic Fleet's northern exercises of late 1948 and 1949, however, Division units have secured invaluable amphibious experience under the cold-wet weather conditions of Newfoundland and Labrador. Operating at reinforced battalion strength, our landing forces encountered and learned to master some of the special problems of amphibious warfare in the northern latitudes. The more difficult of these problems centered on the isolated and unsheltered beaches, the bone-chilling wind and rain, and the immobility resulting from need for heavy clothing and shelter, absence of roads or even trails, and untrafficable tundra laced with myriad streams and lakes.

Other unusual opportunities for training have been met in the Mediterranean area. For over two years, the Division has maintained a reinforced battalion with the Navy's Sixth Task Fleet, prepared for whatever duty might be required. This assignment, which is rotated among our infantry battalions, requires a high degree of combat readiness from each, at the same time permitting thorough indoctrination in shipboard techniques, frequent landing exercises over unfamiliar beaches, and mutually beneficial contacts with the British

Armed Forces and friendly Mediterranean peoples.

Culminating the training year in 1947, 1948, and 1949 were operations on the Division level, command post and field exercises at Camp Lejeune followed by the Atlantic Fleet exercises in the Caribbean. Over the beaches of Culebra and Vieques, the Division, reinforced by troops of the Army's Caribbean Command and supported by a Naval Attack Force and elements of the Second Marine Aircraft Wing, executed amphibious landings, followed by extensive operations and training ashore. Here invaluable experience was gained in the control and coordination of a full-fledged Landing Force with its supporting air, artillery and naval gunfire, and in the techniques of joint command and inter-service cooperation.

In 1949, added realism and diversification was attained through employment of an Army Aggressor unit in defense and by air transporting a reinforcing battalion into a captured airfield. In 1950, although not participating in the Caribbean maneuvers, the Division is planning full-scale landing exercises to be executed in April over Onslow Beach at Camp Lejeune.

Thus is the Second Marine Division preparing for the worst which may be born of today's critical world situation. Like seventeen generations of Marines behind us, the Marines of the Second Division will be ready to meet any assignment with the courage and efficiency of well-trained fighting men.

Allison Turbo-Prop Engine

MOST power per pound

LEAST fuel per horsepower

The new 5500 horsepower Allison T40 Turbo-Prop is the most powerful propeller-type engine in the world today. It develops more than two horsepower for each pound of weight —yet its fuel economy is better than that of any other Turbo-Prop engine in the world.

Its twin-engine-unit design permits full power for shorter take-off, faster climb and top cruising speed. In flight, to gain best fuel economy for cruising, one power unit may be shut off entirely, allowing the other to operate at its most efficient setting. Through shafting, clutches and a reduction gear, either engine unit drives both propellers. Thus there is no drag from a feathered propeller when one power unit is shut down. This feature, permitting maximum power and maximum fuel economy, cannot be matched by a single unit engine.

3. Six months of active Federal commissioned service will no longer be required immediately prior to screening of an applicant. However, a total of twelve months of active Federal commissioned service is still required prior to submission of application. Also, an officer must be on active duty at the time of his application except under the following condition: Waivers of the requirement that an individual must be on extended active duty at time of application will be considered for persons who meet all other requirements and who, in addition, possess a baccalaureate degree from an accredited college or university in a field of study for which the Air Force has a particular need. Although specific fields of study were not enumerated, generally speaking, they include Physics, Aeronautical, Mechanical, Electrical and Civil Engineers, the Theoretical Sciences and Business-Personnel Management or Accounting majors.

The announced changes do not affect the maximum age for eligibility which requires that an individual must not exceed his 30th birthday as of 1 July of the year in which application is submitted.

Clinical Clerkships

The Air Force Medical Service has established position vacancies for 75 clinical clerkships at Air Force base hospitals for medical students who have completed their junior year at medical school and who hold Air Force Reserve commissions. To be eligible for selection as a clerk, the student must be a member of the Volunteer or Organized Air Reserve. Students selected will enter on active duty as officers in the reserve rank they now hold, with full pay and allowances. Officers who hold aeronautical ratings will not be on flying status while on duty as clinical clerks.

Bomb Group C.O.

Col. Richard H. Carmichael, wartime commander of the 19th Bomb Group, has been appointed Commanding Officer of the 98th Bomb Group at Spokane AFB, Wash., Col. Clifford H. Rees, base commander, has announced. He succeeds Col. Richard D. Dick, who has been selected to attend the Air War College at Maxwell AFB, Ala.

U. S. AIR FORCE

AF Enlisted Promotions

Promotions to the top four airman grades henceforth will be restricted to monthly quotas, with the first quotas slated for transmittal from USAF Headquarters to major commands next month.

At the present time, promotions to the top three grades are frozen. To facilitate operation of the quota system, promotions to sergeant are to be suspended temporarily also.

In consonance with the Airman Career Program, Air Force officials related, the quota system of promotions accents the previously announced policy of effecting assignments by specialty as well as by grade.

The new system of controlling promotions is dictated by current and anticipated budgetary requirements and is designed to aid in relieving the overloaded top airman grades through central control. This is expected to result eventually in a more freely operating promotion process.

The following is the text of a message dispatched from USAF Headquarters pertaining to the new promotion ruling:

"In connection with current and expected budgetary limitations, it is necessary for Headquarters, USAF, to exercise a more rigid control over the spread of grades in both the officer and airman structure. In the past, airman promotions have been made against T/ONE and T/D vacancies. However, vacancies computed in this manner do not in all cases fall within the limitations imposed by budget restrictions. Past methods of airman promotions have resulted in certain grades exceeding budgetary limitations. In order to insure that grades do not exceed funds appropriated for this purpose, it has become necessary to institute a quota system of control for promotion of airman similar to that recently adopted for officers.

"Vacancies on an Air Force wide basis in the grades of sergeant and higher will be computed monthly by Headquarters USAF and allocated on a proportional basis to major commands and to those agencies having similar promotion jurisdiction. In order to permit a more accurate computation of grade vacancies, promotion of airman subsequent to receipt of this directive will be confined to grades of Private First Class and Corporal pending receipt of quotas for the grades of Sergeant and above. Initial quotas for promotion to these latter grades will be forthcoming in May 1950. Subsequent quotas will be distributed by Headquarters USAF on a monthly basis. Promotions to grades of Sergeant and above will be accomplished within the quotas allocated to commands or agencies concerned. "Provisions of this message supersede all previous instructions concerning suspensions of promotions of airmen."

Please send in notice of your change of address promptly.

Confirm Sec. Finletter

The nomination of Mr. Thomas K. Finletter to be Secretary of the Air Force, succeeding Mr. W. Stuart Symington, was confirmed by the Senate 13 April.

Mr. Finletter told the Armed Services Committee that he still believes the Air Force should be composed of 70 Groups, as reported after the hearings held by the President's Air Policy Commission, and that before modifying his views on this matter he desires to study present defense conditions.

Price of Survival

Retiring Secretary of the Air Force W. Stuart Symington warned this week that "the price of survival is military preparedness," and called upon Americans to "work together unceasingly to solve the problem of financing the bare necessities of military security, both at home and abroad, without wrecking our national economy in the process."

Soon to become chairman of the National Security Resources Board, Secretary Symington said in an address at Macon, Ga., that "we must not repeat our past error of trying to build as much as possible of everything that might conceivably be useful in any future war."

"We must concentrate instead on the real necessities and only those necessities, because that production in itself will heavily burden our national economy and resources."

Secretary Symington declared that "no American, with the good of his country at heart will let self-interest, or outmoded concept, or tradition, or personal prestige, influence him in advocating anything that is not essential to carrying out the operations decided as necessary in case we are attacked."

Delay Selection Board

The Air Force selection board to name officers for permanent promotion to the rank of captain, originally slated to begin deliberations on 10 April, will not meet before 24 April, USAF Headquarters revealed this week.

The two-week delay is a result of the necessity to complete complex administrative procedures before final data can be made available to board members.

Train Air Reservists

Approximately 2,100 Naval Air Reserve recruits will be given eight weeks of indoctrination training at Naval Air stations throughout the country this summer.

The recruits, who are new members of organized squadrons of the Naval Air Reserve, will report to their training areas at various dates in June.

The first full-scale summer training of recruits for the Naval Air Reserve program was conducted last summer. Results showed that the trained recruits were the best potential material in their respective squadrons, the Navy said.

The Naval Air Reserve program, launched in July, 1946, has an active membership of more than 25,000 enlisted personnel who attend regularly scheduled drills. The membership was increased by more than 2,500 during the last year.

Disability Retirement

AS THE JOURNAL went to press this week
 the President's approval of an Executive Order, fixing the responsibility for payment, hospitalization and re-examination of military personnel retired for physical disability, was momentarily expected.

This Executive Order, which is required under the provisions of Section 414 (b) of the new Career Compensation Act, was cleared by the Department of Justice late last week and sent to the President for signature. The Order had previously been discussed informally with the President, and in its final draft embodies his views, so that it seems certain that he will sign it.

Final action is also pending on an Executive Order required by Section 411 of the new Pay Act. The draft of this order is still under consideration in the Department of Justice, but it is expected that it will be cleared for Presidential action early next week. This order prescribes the procedure whereby those retired for disability prior to 1 Oct. 1949 may elect to be paid either under the old or the new law.

As soon as these two Executive Orders are approved by the President the procedure under which those retired for disability may be paid the retroactive increases in compensation to which they may be entitled will be started. Those retired prior to last October will be informed of the amount to which they would be entitled under the new Act, based on degree of disability and length of service.

Each individual will then be in a position to determine for himself whether it would be more advantageous to be paid under the new law or under the old one.
 Under the law previously in effect each person retired for disability received 75 per cent of his active duty pay, all of which is exempt from Federal income tax.
 Under the new law he would receive a proportion of active duty pay, determined both by the percentage of disability and length of service, but only that portion of his pay represented by the degree of disability would be tax-exempt.

Section 414 (b) of the Career Compensation Act provides that responsibility for pay, hospitalization and re-examination of those retired for disability will rest either with the Service concerned or the Veterans' Administration, as prescribed by the President. The inability of the agencies concerned to reach a satisfactory agreement as to which should be responsible for these functions has been the occasion for a delay of more than six months in arriving at a decision.

SATURDAY, 15 APRIL 1950

OUR PRIORITY LIST

1. Early construction of adequate Government quarters for commissioned and enlisted personnel at all permanent stations, supplemented by satisfactory legislation to encourage private building of dwelling units near Service establishments.
2. Improved retirement pay for wounded and disabled personnel.
3. Continuance and extension of medical and dental care for families of Service personnel; provision for education at Government expense of children of Service personnel on duty at stations where suitable free schools are not available; and survivor benefits for dependents.
4. Restoration of military exemptions from Federal income tax, broadened to exclude all retired pay from taxation.
5. Early attainment and continued maintenance of a fully-manned 70-group Air Force.
6. Prompt construction of a radar fence and air warning net to cover all avenues of hostile air approach.
7. Rapid expansion of our submarine fleet and accelerated development of anti-submarine vessels and equipment, with continued experimentation and construction of new Naval types.
8. Organization and training of a balanced Mobile Ground Force, including air-borne and amphibious troops, of sufficient strength and ready, with complete and modern equipment, for immediate action in an emergency.
9. Development and improvement of the organization and training of the National Guard, Organized Reserves and other civilian components of the Armed Forces, with appropriate training facilities, and restoration of inactive training pay for all elements.
10. Continued scientific research and development in all new and unconventional devices and methods of warfare backed by industry and labor kept constantly ready and trained through production and educational orders.
11. Close supervision and constant scrutiny of Service promotion and elimination policies and procedures, to insure the prevention or prompt correction of injustices and inequities.

PROTESTS by Government employees and labor organizations over reported replacement of civilians by military personnel in defense installations merit Congressional attention. Recently the Department of Defense directed the dismissal of 163,000 civilian employees. Most of those let out were serving at field stations of the Army, Navy and Air Force, a number of which were closed and others operated at a reduced scale. In numerous cases, particularly at shipyards, it is reported that enlisted personnel have replaced civilians. In protesting this situation the Metal Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor cites two orders by Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson. The first order dated 14 Oct., 1949 announces the commendable policy that civilians "will be utilized in all positions which do not require military skills or military incumbents for reasons of training, security or discipline." The second order dated 14 Dec., 1949 declares that the October policy statement "must be construed to mean that whenever military personnel are available because, temporarily, they are not required for primarily military duties they shall be utilized, in the interest of economy, to perform necessary repair and maintenance operations on military equipment or facilities." This second order, in substance, if not in language, clearly reverses the policy announced in the first. The fighting efficiency of our Armed Forces should not be impaired through assignment of military personnel to duties which can be performed as well, or better, by civilians. Cutbacks in military strength have curtailed the number of soldiers, sailors and airmen available for combat training. Detail of enlisted men to non-military duties should not be permitted to deplete still further the fighting efficiency of the Services. It is false economy to dismiss skilled civilians and replace them with personnel trained for combat units. Both are needed for Defense and both should be kept on the duties for which they were trained.

THE amazing voyage of the U. S. Navy submarine Pickerel from Hong Kong to Honolulu, under water the entire time, is a dramatic demonstration of the effectiveness of our new subsurface craft. The record trip of 5200 miles under water for 21 days was made possible by the use of the German-developed snorkel, or breathing device, as well as the skill and initiative of the captain and crew of the vessel. Navigation throughout the voyage was accomplished by utilizing Loran, the new long-range radio system, which kept the ship on course. The purpose was to test the ability of the snorkel to keep the diesel engines of the submarine supplied with essential fresh air during prolonged periods while operating beneath the surface of the ocean. Prior to the development of the snorkel the diesel engines could be used only when cruising on the surface; when submerged the vessel was operated by batteries, which necessitated frequent surfacing for recharging. The snorkel was developed by the Germans late in World War II, too late to play an effective part in that conflict. It is clear that in any future war the greatly extended range of submarines, and their ability to cruise submerged for indefinite periods will have a profound effect on naval strategy. The exploit of Comdr. Paul R. Schratz and the other members of the crew of the Pickerel in crossing the vast Pacific under water, without once surfacing until reaching the destination this week is a truly historic event. The entire Navy and these pioneering submariners, in particular, merit the warm congratulations of the nation.

APPOINTMENT of Thomas Knight Finletter as Secretary of the Air Force brings to that highly important post an exceptionally well-qualified official. His background of training and experience and his detailed knowledge of the country's requirements in military aviation will be of tremendous value to the nation and to the Armed Forces. Mr. Finletter served in World War I as a captain of field artillery. Subsequently he was a successful corporation lawyer in New York, and the author of a number of volumes on corporation law. During World War II he was special assistant to the Secretary of State, and in 1945 was consultant to the American delegation to the San Francisco Conference for the organization of the United Nations. Later he headed the President's Commission on Air Policy which issued the comprehensive report "Survival in the Air Age" including among its recommendations the proposal for building up a 70-Group Air Force. The extensive survey that preceded the report made Mr. Finletter thoroughly familiar with every aspect of the complex problem of developing and maintaining adequate military air power. More recently, Mr. Finletter has been an official of the Economic Co-operation Administration. Members of the Air Force will deeply regret the loss of Air Secretary W. Stuart Symington, who has become Chairman of the National Security Resources Board after a brilliant record as first Secretary of the Air Force, but they will rejoice that the President has chosen a successor with such outstanding qualifications.

Letters to the Editor

Letters expressing individual views and intended for publication should be accompanied by the name and address of the writer, not necessarily for publication, but as evidence of good faith. If the writer desires to omit his name when the letter is published, he should so state. The ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL may find it necessary to use only extracts from longer letters so that more viewpoints may be represented.

Albert Lenoir Key

Editor, The Journal:

The announcement of the death of Commodore Albert Lenoir Key, USN (Ret.), on 26 Jan. 1950, in your issue of 4 Feb. 1950, contained, I believe, some grave omissions. The only distinctions accorded this officer were that he had been naval aide to President Theodore Roosevelt and that he was one of the oldest living graduates of the Naval Academy. No mention was made of his being a contemporary and friend of William S. Sims or that he took most determined steps with that officer to bring some measure of reform into the Navy in the early nineteen hundreds.

I learned about Key in Eltinge E. Morison's excellent biography, "Admiral Sims and the Modern American Navy." The naval historians, Harold and Margaret Sprout, also learned of him evidently through the same means, had an omission in their first edition of "The Rise of American Sea Power" which they corrected in the revision of 1944. My own opinion is that Morison's biography of Sims is an outstanding classic in American naval literature.

The notice of Commodore Key's death sent me back to that book to recall this officer whose name, except for Morison, might "have been lost along with the thousands of naval officers who have found anonymity in serving their country." I also read some of the references which Morison gave including Rear Admiral Austin M. Knight's "History of the Naval War College," prepared in 1916 and Henry Reuterdahl's article, "The Needs of Our Navy," published in McClure's Magazine in January 1908. Reuterdahl was a famous artist but he also was, as the then editor of "Jane's Fighting Ships," a civilian authority on naval matters. In a crisp, clear style and with sketches to illustrate, he asserted that: (1) faulty turrets and armor belts in our latest battleships made them inferior to ships of other modern navies; (2) the promotion of naval officers only by seniority was anachronistic; and (3) the archaic organization of the Navy Department made for the perpetuation of these errors. This article, if not inspired or written by Sims, at least had his concurrence.

These critical observations had somewhat the same effect upon the country as the recent announcement that Russia had the A-bomb. German military power, especially its sea power, was rising and the consequences of the Battle of Tsushima were fresh in the minds of thinking Americans. The country was proud of the growing strength of its fleet which was then on its famous voyage around the world. The immediate result of the article was an investigation by the Senate Naval Affairs Committee then under the powerful leadership of Senator Hale of Maine. The first witnesses at the investigation were Admirals Capps and Converse. Capps was Chief of the Bureau of Construction and Repair while Converse had been Chief of the Bureau of Ordnance, of Equipment and of Navigation. The testimony of these two distinguished officers built up a strong case against the charges made by Reuterdahl. Several other distinguished officers, including Sims himself, supported Reuterdahl's contentions before the Committee. But it was Key's clear testimony, substantiated by impressive statistics, that confirmed them beyond doubt. The Committee had to recognize that there was more truth in the article than they had been led to expect from the testimony of the two admirals. No report of this investigation was ever issued nor were any recommendations made. Only the record of the hearings were published.

Two months later Sims and Key were at it again. Key, while at Fore River fitting out the Salem which he later commanded, thoroughly inspected the partially completed North Dakota which was being built at that yard. The outcome of this inspection was a letter from Key to the Secretary of the Navy criticizing several design features of this ship. The North Dakota, and its sister, Delaware, were to be the first real dreadnaughts and the coming prides of our Navy. To assure action on Key's letter Sims brought it to the attention of President Theodore Roosevelt whose naval aide he, Sims, then was. As a result a conference of naval officers was convened at his order at Newport, Rhode Island, to examine the designs of our major warships both building and laid down. The membership was made up of the General Board, the staff of the Naval War College, representatives of the Bureaus and certain younger officers from the fleet, ordered to this duty at the instigation of Sims. Key was also a member. The President himself addressed this conference with a speech that made the front pages of the country's leading newspapers. The conclusions of the conference were disappointing to Sims and Key. In general, it confirmed the allegations of Key and also pointed out defects in the Utah class which was to follow. But no recommendations for drastic changes in design were made as it was considered that construction was too far advanced. This was disappointing to Sims and Key but these two officers in the end found justification. All the defects they disclosed were corrected eventually in the designs of the Nevada and Oklahoma. Their efforts for an overhaul of the organization of the Navy Department found some fruits in the establishment in 1915 of the office of the Chief of Naval Operations and in the passage of the first selection law in 1916.

Key, Luce, Taylor, Flske and others whose names almost are forgotten now, made lasting contributions to the greatness of the United States Navy. We should not allow ourselves to be blinded to these contributions by the reflected glories of the Navy's accomplishments in World War II. But for these men the job might not have been done so well.

In The Journal

One Year Ago

Capt. John F. Hugues, Deputy Chief of Navy Chaplains and a veteran of both World Wars, will be retired 1 May at his own request. He will have completed more than 20 years of Naval service. Mr. Hugues was relieved by Capt. Stanton Salisbury, who was recently selected for promotion to the grade of Rear Admiral.

10 Years Ago

THE JOURNAL salutes Capt. William K. Harrell, USN, who has been ordered to command Patrol Wing 1; Col. Julian C. Smith, USMC, who will become Chief of Staff to the Commanding General at Quantico, Va.

25 Years Ago

While there is a depressing block in promotion in the lower grades of the Army, the War Department is refusing to approve applications for retirement for more than 30 years' service. It is stated that within the last six or seven months 40 applications for retirement under this law have been disapproved.

50 Years Ago

Owing to the present urgent need for officers of ability by the Army in our foreign possessions, the Secretary of War has decided it will be impracticable to assign any officers this year to the Naval War College for instruction. It is his intention, however, next year to accept the invitation of the Secretary of the Navy and assign three or four officers to this college.

85 Years Ago

After many struggles, many unsuccessful campaigns, the Army of the Potomac has been led into Richmond. McDowell, McClellan, Pope, Burnside, and Hooker, all successively failed to do what fortune reserved for Meade, under Grant, to accomplish.

PAY AND PENSIONS

The only way an Army Officer, dependent upon his salary, can guarantee income for his family after his demise is by purchasing life insurance.

The ARMY MUTUAL AID ASSOCIATION pays benefits immediately without request. Its office prepares applications for pension and assists with other claims.

Proving Pension claims for dependents of Regular Army personnel is still a complicated and tedious matter for the inexperienced.

Every Regular Army Officer should assure his parents, wife and children the protection and claims service of the Army Mutual Aid Association.

SERVICE NEWS AND GOSSIP

Hospitals and the Missing Millions—This is a brief statistical story of "missing millions" in connection with the closing or curtailment of 18 military medical facilities.

On 1 Feb., in an official announcement, Secretary Johnson said that inactivation or change in status of 18 hospitals, including five general hospitals, would save about $25,000,000 annually. About a week later, testifying before the House Armed Services hospital subcommittee, Dr. Richard L. Meiling, Defense Director of Medical Services, upped his boss by $5,000,000 and said the net savings from the economy program should approximate $30,000,000.

In addition to members of the Armed Services subcommittee, the House Appropriations defense subcommittee also was "impressed" by these alleged savings. Forthwith, the appropriations group slashed over $12,000,000 from the 1951 budget. The Army Medical Department lost $8,661,000 and the Navy Medical Department, $4,202,000. The Appropriations Committee, in reporting the omnibus bill last month, insisted that there was no intention to reduce medical services for military personnel and their dependents. It was stated emphatically that the cut was made on the basis of the announced savings.

It is recalled, of course, that during their testimony before the Armed Services hospital subcommittee, the Surgeons General maintained that the economy order would not save $25,000,000. For the Navy, Rear Adm. Clifford A. Swanson said the actual saving would be $500,000 or less—with no saving possible for the first year because of the necessity of renovating facilities now in "mothballs" and increased transportation costs for patients. Maj. Gen. Harry Armstrong said the plan will actually mean an increase of $186,000 in the Air Force budget, to compensate for patients to be sent to Navy hospitals.

The confusion regarding the savings from the hospital closings has been compounded with release of new hearings before the House Appropriations subcommittee. Assistant Secretary of Defense Wilfred J. McNeil stated that the total saving would be $6,254,930 during fiscal year 1951, less than half of the reduction in the budget for medical activities. Mr. McNeil said the Medical and Hospital Appropriation of the Army should be cut only by $1,747,741, and that the total economy saving to the Army of $4,963,241 should be distributed among seven appropriations, such as Finance, Quartermaster, Engineer and Ordnance.

Admiral Swanson emphasized the drastic effects of the cut as he said: "Unless full restoration of the House reduction is made, the result will be contrary to the stated purpose of the House committee; namely, that it will deny needed essential medical care and treatment to military personnel or others entitled to treatment."

Defense witnesses contend now that the $25,000,000 was incorporated in the formulation of the budget last year and therefore no added cuts should be made. However, Admiral Swanson told the appropriations group that the first time he knew about the hospital economy plan was on the afternoon of 17 Jan., and by this time, of course, the President's budget had already been made public. And again it is noted that Secretary Johnson did not announce the plan publicly until 1 Feb.

What this adds up to is expressed very forcefully by Representative George H. Mahon (D Tex.), who is chairman of the House Appropriations defense subcommittee: "We were told that there was a $25,000,000 savings. Now we are told there were actually no net savings that had not already been discounted. We just cannot be jumping from one side of the fence to the other."

In the midst of all this, of course, is the soldier, sailor, airman, and marine and his dependents. While the economy effort is reflected thus in "missing millions," preparations are being made to close hospitals by 1 July. The loss of medical services is apparent; the finding of savings is less obvious.

World War II Unknown—At historic Independence Hall in Philadelphia on the morning of Saturday, 26 May, 1951, the World War II Unknown will be selected from among six members of the Armed Forces who gave their lives overseas and whose identities can never be established.

The Unknown will be brought to Washington by a U. S. Naval vessel and the remains will lie in state in the rotunda of the Capitol. On Memorial Day, 30 May, 1951, the Unknown will be entombed at Arlington National Cemetery.

Symbolic of all branches of the Armed Forces and representative of every theater of operation where Americans fought and died during World War II, the six bodies brought back to this country will be selected from among unidentifiable Armed Forces dead interred in 16 permanent United States military cemeteries and national cemeteries overseas. There are at the present time, approximately 8,000 unidentified dead buried in these cemeteries.

Details on who will select the Unknown of World War II at Philadelphia and those who are to take part in ceremonies incident to the selection and final burial have not been completed. Provision for return of an Unknown American who died while serving overseas in the Armed Forces of the United States during World War II was made by Public Law 429 of the 79th Congress.

One Unknown representing each of five overseas theaters and the Alaskan Command will be selected on or before March 15, 1951, from among all the Unknowns interred in the permanent United States military cemeteries of World War II and two national cemeteries overseas.

The Unknown dead will be selected as candidates for the greatest memorial honors which the country can bestow on the basis of three factors: there must be no evidence that the deceased was other than a member of the United States Armed Forces; the possibility of identity being established in the future must be eliminated beyond all doubt, and the deceased must not be a part of a group burial.

Passing of Two Ship Experts—On 7 April, death took two noted naval construction experts—one hailed as "The Father of the Flat-Top," the other renowned as a world authority on submarines. At St. Albans Naval Hospital, N. Y., death came to Vice Adm. Thomas T. Craven, USN-Ret., who, as Director of Naval Aviation shortly after World War I, ordered conversion of the collier Jupiter into the USS Langley, the first aircraft carrier.

On the same day, while traveling on a train near Hamlet, N. C., Erick H. Ewertz, 76, died suddenly. He had assisted the late John P. Holland in building the first submarine. At the time of his death, Mr. Ewertz was consulting engineer for the Electric Boat Company, New London, Conn., noted submarine builders.

Famous Bugle to West Point Museum—On the 86th anniversary of the surrender of General Robert E. Lee at Appomattox, the historic bugle used to sound the final charge of Union forces in the Civil War was presented to the U. S. Military Academy, West Point, N. Y., on 9 April. The bugle was a gift of Cadet Mauris M. Eek, Jr., the grandson of Nathaniel Sisson, the bugler on the last day of the formal fighting in the Civil War. Bugler Sisson died in 1932.

Air Transport Prototypes—America must develop new air transport prototypes and in the interest of National Security must reduce the gap between the number of planes required for mobilization and the number in our commercial air transport fleet. Admiral DeWitt C. Ramsey, president of the Aircraft Industries Association, spoke on this theme in two addresses in Washington this week, one before the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences and the other before the Aviation Writers Association. The British, Admiral Ramsey declared, have a substantial lead over us in transport planes.

Admiral Ramsey declared that it would cost about $20 millions to design and build a completely new airliner powered by a turbo-prop or a turbo-jet engine. An investment of this amount is beyond the reach of our present plane manufacturers. The British development was done with government funds.

"Late in January," Admiral Ramsey said, "the Department of Defense developed a prototype program which called for separate appropriations to purchase prototypes of two cargo aircraft, one designed primarily for military purposes, one designed primarily for civil purposes. The Defense Establishment and the Air Force decided they could not recommend the design and development of a high-speed jet or turbine prop-powered passenger airliner unless additional funds were provided outside the regular military budget. However, when the Defense Establishment submitted this program to the Budget Bureau for approval, the Budget Bureau declared that the program was not in accord with the President's Program. This meant that it could not be urged by the Department of Defense, and that Department then informed Congress that it would not support any type of prototype legislation. A major reason for the action of the Budget Bureau was the feeling that a cargo aircraft required chiefly for military purposes should be provided for in the military budget and should not be a subject of specific legislation.

"It is obvious that the action of the Budget Bureau put the brakes on the prototype program for the time being. We in this country seemed back where we had started in the summer of 1949. Subsequently, however, the Air Coordinating Committee brought forward a plan of its own. Its program authorized specific appropriations to the CAA to enable that agency to pay for the cost of flight testing and other costs associated with the certification process. The measure would also authorize the CAA to enter into contracts with an airline to conduct experimental flying of a turbine-powered military aircraft on dummy routes. It is understood that this bill has obtained tentative approval of the Budget Bureau and will likely be presented to the Congress in the near future.

"From my point of view, of course, it is far from a complete solution to the prototype problem. It assumes that manufacturers will find some means of financing the main cost of designing and developing a prototype. It requires the Government only to pay for the expense of flight testing and certification. It has, nevertheless, value in the encouragement of the conversion of existing types and models to turbine propulsion."

New Navy Flying Boat—Preparations for the first test-flight of a new Navy flying boat are now underway at San Diego, Calif. Built by Consolidated-Vultee Corporation, the new plane is the largest flying boat in the world. It is reportedly armed with cannon, rocket projectiles and guided missiles. The plane is also equipped with turbo-prop engines.

Promotion Inequality Brings Resignation—Lt. Col. Hubert C. Gee, CE, USA, has resigned his commission in the Army in protest against the failure to equalize promotion opportunities in the Armed Services. Colonel Gee, a major on the permanent promotion list, was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy in 1935. He submitted his resignation on 22 March and it was accepted 14 April. In his letter of resignation he set forth his reasons as follows:

"The Armed Services Unification Act of 1947 laid the groundwork for the establishment of uniform personnel policies within the three services in the Department of Defense. After three years of operation under the Unification Act, no uniform policy with respect to commissioned personnel exists. In addition there is no concrete evidence that such a uniform policy is in process of formulation. Accordingly, the gross inequalities in permanent rank between contemporaries in the Army, the Air Force and the Navy, which presently exist will apparently continue into the future.

"I find that members of my own class at West Point are presently senior to me by two grades on the permanent promotion list simply because they are in the Department of the Air Force. Officers from my corresponding class at Annapolis are presently one grade senior to me on the permanent list. These circumstances exist in the Department of Defense today because of the different provisions of law applicable to the Navy on the one hand and to the Army and Air Force on the other and because of different administrative interpretations of the law within the latter two services. The effect of the existing inequalities on my career is not limited to a mere consideration of inferior rank and compensation. Opportunity for advanced training is presently denied me. This unfair situation has already done irreparable damage to my career as an Army officer. I cannot agree to continue my military career under these circumstances.

"My experience in the Army during the past 19 years has been very satisfying. Numerous letters in my file attest to the fact that my service has been of some material value to my country. I regret exceedingly that my active military career is being terminated as a result of circumstances over which I have no control."

War Claims Commission—Analysis of an official statement made by Chairman Daniel F. Cleary of the War Claims Commission before a House subcommittee shows that despite serious personnel shortages and the lack of adequate space, the Commission is doing an admirable job in processing claims. By mid-March, payments to 1185 claimants in the total sum of $822,537.02 were authorized. Thirteen thousand claims have been acknowledged of the more than 100,000 which have been received from former prisoners of war or their survivors and civilian internees in enemy prison camps. A total of 618,819 claims have been distributed.

Chairman Cleary, a World War II Air Force officer, emphasized the difficulties confronted by the Commission because of the personnel shortage—the Commission had only 53 employees at last report—but said this was partially offset by the uncompensated overtime service of lawyers, clerks, administrators and stenographers. It was revealed, however, that some mail sacks must be left locked for weeks because of the inability of the small staff to cope with the tremendous correspondence.

Foreign Affairs—The attack of Soviet fighters on an unidentified American plane and the disappearance of an unarmed Navy patrol plane in the general vicinity of the encounter combine to create a disturbing incident fraught with grave possibilities.

First news of the occurrence came when Andrei Vishinsky, Russian foreign minister, delivered to American Ambassador Alan G. Kirk a sharp note, protesting the flight of an American B-29 over Latvia, Soviet-occupied territory on the Baltic.

According to the Russian version of the incident a big American bomber was flying east twelve miles inside Latvian territory when first sighted last Saturday afternoon. Russian fighters intercepted and signaled the plane to land at a Soviet airfield. Instead of complying, the Soviet minister asserted, the American aircraft opened fire. One of the Soviet fighters returned the fire and the American aircraft turned out to sea and disappeared over the Baltic.

It develops that this incident occurred about the time a four-engine U. S. Navy patrol plane disappeared while on a routine flight from Wiesbaden to Copenhagen. The plane was a modified B-24 of the Privateer type and did not closely resemble the much larger B-29. It was unarmed, so it could not have opened fire on the Russian planes. There were no B-29's or other American aircraft, with the possible exception of the Privateer, anywhere near that area at the time. Standing instructions require our planes to avoid going near the territory or territorial waters of Russia or satellite countries.

Unless the missing Navy patrol plane can be located there will be a strong suspicion that an unarmed American aircraft has been shot down by Soviet fighters. Assuming that the missing Navy plane was involved in the incident its presence over Latvia, 350 miles off its course, can be accounted for only by the failure of navigating instruments, causing it to lose its way.

American planes are conducting a continuous search of the Baltic in an effort to locate the lost plane or surviving members of its crew. The Swedish government has protested that one of the search planes made an unauthorized flight over a fortified area of Sweden.

Two ships carrying American arms for Western European countries were unloaded this week in Italy and France, without incident, despite previous Communist threats to prevent the discharge of the cargoes. The Exilonia, with weapons for Italy, was unloaded at Naples, where efforts to whip up a hostile Red demonstration failed. This vessel had been expected to dock at Bari, where preparations had been made by the Communists to register a violent protest. The change in destination evidently crossed up the Reds. Nevertheless they attempted rather a weak demonstration, then called a general strike which failed to materialize. Similarly at Cherbourg in France the dockers refused to follow the Communist party line and promptly unloaded the cargo of arms arriving at that port.

The United States is host to President Gabriel Gonzalez Videla of Chile who arrived in Washington last Wednesday and was given a hearty welcome by hundreds of thousands of capital residents. President Gonzalez will remain in this country about two weeks and will visit a number of American cities. Included in the party of the distinguished South American statesman are Col. Santiago Robles, military aide, and Lt. Col. Eduardo Middleton, air aide. Rear Admiral Walter G. Schindler, USN, is United States aide to the president of Chile.

Responding quickly to a sharp note of warning from Secretary of State Dean Acheson, the government of South Korea has reversed its previous decision to postpone elections until next November. It has also initiated steps to curb inflation and will attempt to balance the budget. The new elections will probably be held on 30 May. Secretary Acheson bluntly advised the Koreans that continued American aid was contingent on early elections and a balanced budget.

The State Department announced the failure of long negotiations to secure the evacuation of 1,200 refugees, including 400 Americans, from Communist-held Shanghai. Both Communists and nationalists interfered with plans for the evacuation by sea, and now an attempt will be made to secure the removal of the refugees to a North China port or to the British crown colony of Hong Kong in southeastern China.

The government of Thailand reports that the United States has granted arms and military aid to that country in the amount of $10 million. This aid is apparently a direct result of the conclusions reached at the Bangkok conference of American diplomats last February. At that meeting Philip C. Jessup, United States Ambassador-at-Large, said that it was the policy of our government to give military assistance to countries of Asia determined to resist Communism. The small kingdom of Thailand has taken a resolute stand against the Red tide.

At his press conference on Thursday, which marked the beginning of his sixth year in office, the President noted that there had been a steady improvement in our international relations since 1946. He indicated that we were much closer to war in 1946 than we are today.

General Omar N. Bradley, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, in an address before the Executives Club of Chicago on Friday, said that for the past two years "the atomic bomb, the American Air Force, and the tremendous industrial potential of this nation and its allies have performed miracles in discouraging aggression." The general said that the Atlantic Security Treaty in its first year had become "an influence for peace, a deterrent to aggression." He expressed the belief that the treaty and its organization for security and defense could become "a greater deterrent for war than any bomb that ever existed."

Army Medical Corps—Col. Laurence A. Potter, MC, formerly chief, Officer Procurement Branch, Personnel Division, Office of the Army Surgeon General, has been assigned as assistant chief, Medical Plans and Operations Division. Colonel Potter will also be chief of the Mobilization Branch of that division. Appointed as assistant to Colonel Potter was Lt. Col. Harold P. Larson, MSC, formerly chief, Plans, Operations and Training Division, Medical Division, Headquarters, Second Army, Fort George G. Meade, Md.

Lt. Col. James Q. Simmons, Jr., MC, formerly assistant to Colonel Potter in the Officer Procurement Branch, has been assigned as chief of that branch. Colonel Simmons was assigned to the Surgeon General's Office last Nov. after completing a year's course in personnel administration at George Washington University, Washington, D. C. Prior to that he was commanding officer of the 171st Evacuation Hospital, Fort Bragg, N. C.

In his new assignment Colonel Potter succeeds Col. Charles C. Bruce, MC, who was recently assigned to the Office of the Medical Director, Office of the Secretary of Defense, as assistant to Brig. Gen. Earle Standlee.

Air University—Transfer of the Air Force Extension Course Institute from the Continental Air Command to the Air University effective 1 May was announced this week by General George C. Kenney, USAF, AU Commanding General. The Institute now stationed at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., will be moved to Gunter AFB, Montgomery, Ala. Its personnel will include 17 officers, 155 airmen and 28 civilians.

Approximately 50,000 students are now enrolled with the Institute and the number is expected to increase to 75,000. Most of the courses parallel as far as possible those given in residence by the Air University. Both regular and reserve Air Force officers, as well as personnel of other services including Air National Guard, airmen and civilians employed by the USAF whose duties require knowledge available in the courses are eligible for enrollment. The Air University has been preparing the extension courses but until now the program has been administered by the Continental Air Command. Transfer of the Institute to the Air University gives General Kenney complete responsibility for the Extension Course Program.

This transfer, which comes on the heels of the announcement that the USAF Institute of Technology also had been placed under the Air University, makes a total of seven schools under General Kenney's supervision: The Air War College and the Air Command and Staff School, at Maxwell; Special Staff School at Craig Air Force Base, Selma, Ala., with its Air Communication and Electronic Staff Officers' Course at Gunter; School of Aviation Medicine, Randolph AFB, Tex.; and the Air Tactical School, Tyndall AFB, Fla.

Bureau of Medicine and Surgery—The Navy's second annual Industrial Health Conference will be held in conjunction with the 35th Annual Meeting of the American Association of Industrial Physicians and Surgeons and associated groups of Industrial Dentists, Industrial Hygienists and Industrial Nurses, on 22-28 April, in the Hotel Sherman, Chicago, Ill. Attending will be industrial health personnel representing the major naval industrial activities in the United States and the Territory of Hawaii.

The Surgeon General of the Navy, Rear Adm. Clifford A. Swanson, accompanied by Capt. H. K. Sessions, MC, USN, and Lt. A. W. Kenney, MSC, USN, will represent the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery. Captain Sessions, Deputy Director of the Preventive Medicine Division, Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, will be Chairman of the Navy conference and will be assisted by Lieutenant Kenney, Safety Officer of the Bureau.

Sec. Pace's Views—Interviewed on television last week-end, the new Secretary of the Army, Mr. Frank C. Pace, Jr., said his objective in his new job will be to give the greatest amount of defense "dollar for dollar." He said he is entering upon the Army's top job with no "preconceived ideas," that he wants to absorb some background and get a firm grasp of things. Often, he commented, projects that look good on paper will not always work out in practice. He gave high praise to the progress unification has made under the late Secretary Forrestal and the present Secretary, Louis Johnson.

Army Finance Department—Col. John R. Vance, FD, Headquarters, Second Army, Ft. Meade, Md., and Maj. William G. Wharry, FD, of the Columbus, Ohio, Finance Office, U. S. Army, were visitors in the Office of the Chief of Finance last week.

The following Finance Department officers have been selected to attend the 1950-51 regular course of instruction at the Command and General Staff College Ft. Leavenworth, Kans.: Lt. Col. William J. Fabritius, FD, currently assigned at Ft. Leavenworth, Kans.; Maj. Ernest E. Brown, FD, currently assigned at the Office, Chief of Finance; and Maj. Danna L. Lane, FD, currently assigned to Headquarters, Eighth Army, Yokohama, Japan.

No. 1 Warrant Officers—The Number One Warrant Officer in the Army, CWO Irving S. Hansen, has been assigned to duty at the Transportation School, Ft. Eustis, Va., it was announced this week by Brig. Gen. Walter J. Muller, Post Commander. "The change in assignment," he said, "was effected as the result of the recent deactivation of the Army Mine Planter Service, with which Hansen was serving as Master of the Mineplanter "Weaver" at the Harbor Defenses of Cristobal, Canal Zone.

Hansen's military career began 4 Dec. 1920 at San Francisco, when he received a direct appointment as Warrant Officer in the Army Mine Planter Service.

Since then he has served continuously on various mineplanters at the Harbor Defenses of San Francisco; Corregidor, P. I.; Harbor Defenses of Long Island; Cristobal, C. Z.; and Harbor Defenses of Boston. He also commanded the new $2,000,000 mineplanter "Maybach" on her initial run from Point Pleasant, W. Va., down the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers to New Orleans, and then to Ft. Hancock, N. J. Later, he took this vessel from Ft. Monroe to the Harbor Defenses of San Francisco, where she was used as a training ship for the Coast Artillery School at Ft. Winfield Scott. In the past 30 years he has had but four years' shore duty.

In illustrating the long time he has been a Warrant Officer, Hansen recalled that he served with Lt. Gen. Albert Wedemeyer when the latter was a second lieutenant aide to the Commanding General at Corregidor.

Hansen is especially proud of the fact that he is one of the few Army personnel authorized and required to wear four stripes and an anchor on the sleeves of his Army uniform. These rare distinctive uniform markings signify that he is qualified and eligible to serve as Master of any U. S. Merchant Marine ship, regardless of size, anywhere in the world. After completing the Instructor Training Course he is now pursuing at the Transportation School, Hansen will be assigned to the School's Marine Branch, where he will teach navigation and nautical astronomy.

Duncan Hines "Recommends" Food Service School—The Sixth Army Food Service school at the Presidio of San Francisco can now boast a "recommended by Duncan Hines" endorsement. In recommending the school's cuisine, Mr. Hines said: "It's as fine food as is served anywhere."

Mr. and Mrs. Hines were guests of Col. Otho Humphries, Sixth Army Quartermaster, and Maj. Albert Middleton, Food Service School Commandant, at a recent luncheon. Following the luncheon, Sgt. 1 Cl. Melvin Jacobson, an instructor at the school, demonstrated his method of salad preparation, particularly approved by Mr. Hines.

She and Secretary Finletter have two daughters, Lili, Mrs. Cass Canfield, jr., and Margot, Mrs. John F. B. Mitchell, jr.

The Chief of Staff of the Army and Mrs. J. Lawton Collins were guests of honor at a small dinner which Lt. Gen. and Mrs. John E. Hull gave on Thursday. Col. and Mrs. John Haskell, who were down from New York for the weekend, were the Hulls' guests at dinner Sunday last at the Army and Navy Club.

The fifth dance of the Army, Navy, Air Force Cotillion will be held tonight at Ft. McNair. Col. and Mrs. Emerson L. Cummings will receive the young guests. Engineering Construction

Contract awards for engineering construction last week increased to $304,439,000, according to the Engineering News Record. This amount represents a gain of 18 per cent over the previous week's total of $258,901,000, and of 71 per cent over $178,242,000 of the comparable week of 1949.

During the first 14 weeks of 1950 the cumulative total of construction awards amounted to $2,899,588,000, an increase of 41 per cent over the same period of last year.

Private construction contracts last week accounted for all the increase, both over the previous week, and over the comparable week of last year, as awards for public construction declined somewhat. Private awards last week amounted to $216,615,000, which was 39 per cent above the total of such contracts in the previous week, and 142 per cent above the same week of last year. By far the biggest private contract of the week was the $125 million housing development in West Long Beach, Calif., a project which calls for construction of 15,500 dwelling units.

Public contracts last week totaled $87,824,000, which was 15 per cent below the previous week and one per cent under the corresponding week of last year. The largest single public contract awarded last week was for the construction of a $6,200,000 veterans' hospital at Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

Hospital at Louisville, Ky., at the age of 70.

He became prominent in Mar. 1916, when, as officer of the day at Columbus, N. M., he directed troops in the protection of civilians when Pancho Villa raided the town. For his defense of Columbus, he received the Distinguished Service Cross.

He retired from the Army in 1932 after 30 years' service. He served as a private in the Spanish-American War, seeing combat in the Philippines. He was a member of the group that captured Aguinaldo, the Insurrectionist. In World War I, he was Assistant to the Quartermaster General in France.

Survivors are his daughter, Mrs. Richard V. McAllen of Anchorage, and a son, Mr. David P. Castleman of 235 Pennsylvania St., Louisville.

Interment was at New Castle Cemetery, Louisville.

Col. George H. McMaster, USA-Ret.

Col. George H. McMaster, USA-Ret., died, after a protracted illness, at the Veterans Hospital, Columbia, S. C., on 29 March.

A native of Columbia, Colonel McMaster graduated from the U. S. Military Academy in the Class of 1892, and was assigned to the Infantry, with which he served until his retirement in 1919. He returned to active duty in 1920, finally retiring in 1921.

He participated in the operations of the Philippine Insurrection, the Punitive Expedition into Mexico and the first World War. In the first mentioned campaign he was awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action at Santa Ana, Luzon, and the DSC for "extraordinary heroism" in swimming, with five of his men, the Cagayan River in Luzon, to dislodge insurgent forces which were opposing the crossing of the river by Batchelor's battalion of his regiment, the 24th Infantry.

One of a family of 14 children, he is survived only by a sister, Mrs. J. B. Foard, of Columbia.

Merchant Marine Reserve

Twelve months active duty program for 300 junior Merchant Marine Naval Reserve officers who have not had active duty — including recent graduates of Maritime Academies—will be continued in the fiscal year of 1951. Orders will be written on a billet for billet basis as those now serving in the current fiscal 1950 one year program are released from active duty.

After 1 July of this year, 56 day training duty orders for MMNR officers will authorize only 14 days with pay and allowances while the 42 day balance must be without pay. To get maximum return and provide for the greatest number of Reserve trainees in fiscal 1951, no funds will be allocated for more than 14 days training duty periods, the Navy has announced.

Contrary to previous reports, MSTs plans to continue present policy in regard to the employment of ship's officers in the former Army Transports. No change will be made until sufficient operating experience indicates the desirability of applying the provisions of Section 302(g) of the Merchant Marine Act of 1936—which would require all deck and engineer officers to be members of the Naval Reserve, if eligible. If and when such a policy is announced, it is certain to contain a saving clause which would exempt former long time employees of the Army Transportation Service and the Army Transportation Corps.

His remains were interred in the churchyard of the First Presbyterian church of Columbia, of which he was a life-long member.

Col. Irvine C. Scudder, USA

Col. Irvine C. Scudder, USA, veteran of World Wars I and II with 34 years' continuous service, died suddenly of a heart attack 4 April at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex. Colonel Scudder was 54 years of age.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Hazel J. Scudder; a daughter, Millicent; and a son, William Irvine.

On 7 Dec. 1941, Colonel Scudder was in command of Cebu Forces, Philippine Islands. From May 1942 until his liberation, Aug. 1945, he was a prisoner of war of Japan. Upon return to the Zone of the Interior he was assigned as Camp Executive Officer, Camp Campbell, Ky.

After a two-year tour as commanding officer of a student training regiment at The Infantry School he commanded the 37th Regimental Combat Team at Ft. Sill until deactivation on 1 Feb. 1949. Colonel Scudder joined Headquarters Fourth Army and served in the capacity of representatives to the Southwest Area Subcommittee of the Committee on Facilities and Services.

Funeral services were held at the Ft. Myer Chapel, Va., on 8 April. Interment with full military honors followed at the Arlington National Cemetery. Serving as honorary pallbearers for the deceased were Lt. Gen. M. S. Eddy; Maj. Gen. L. C. Jaynes; Maj. Gen. W. H. Arnold; Col. C. G. Craig; Col. J. A. Klein; Col. C. Z. Shugart; Col. J. W. Mrs. Mary O. Parrott

Mrs. Mary Ohmer Parrott, 66, wife of Col. Roger Sheffield Parrott, USA-Ret., died 10 April in her home, 4729 Yuma St. NW, Washington, D. C. Funeral services and burial were private.

A native of Dayton, Ohio, Mrs. Parrott had previously lived in Washington when Colonel Parrott was stationed at the Army War College after World War I. He has been retired for the past six years, when they moved to Little Farm, Marshall, Va. They returned to Washington last fall.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a son, Thomas A., of 2811 Dunbarton Ave., NW, and a daughter, Mrs. T. Hughlett Henry, jr., of Easton, Md.

Lt. Col. Rene Edward de Russy, USA-Ret.

Lt. Col. Rene Edward de Russy, 70, USA-Ret., died after a brief illness at Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco, Calif., on 24 March.

Colonel de Russy was born in 1880 at Ft. Gibson, a frontier post in Indian Territory, now Oklahoma, the son of Col. Rene Edward de Russy. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American War, World War I, and World War II. He was retired from active duty in 1944. Since then he has made his home at 401 Palm Avenue, Millbrae, Calif.

Colonel de Russy was a baseball, football and track star at both Manhattan College and Columbia University. He played baseball for a Cincinnati Farm Club and coached high school teams in New Jersey and Georgia before entering the Army. Later he was active in Army athletics. He began his military career in 1917 with the Coast Artillery Corps, and during World War I was assigned to duty in France. From 1918 to 1921 he was with the Coast Artillery Corps on the East Coast, and later in the Hawaiian Department for eight years. In 1928 he was assigned to the Quartermaster Corps in Honolulu where he remained until 1931, when he was assigned to Ft. Winfield Scott, Calif.

In 1931 Colonel de Russy was transferred to Luke Field, T. H. In 1935 he was ordered to Washington, D. C., where he remained until 1939. At that time he was assigned to the San Francisco General Depot and served in the California Quartermaster Depot at Ft. Mason and Oakland, Calif., until January 1943. He was then assigned to the Utah Quartermaster Depot at Ogden, Utah, until his retirement from active duty in January of 1944.

The military genealogy of the de Russy family dates back to 1779 when Thomas de Russy served under Commodore Paul Jones in the Continental Navy. Colonel de Russy carried on the tradition of the family in maintaining the continuous line of military service from 1779 to the time of his death. His grandfather, Rene Edward de Russy, Brigadier General of the U. S. Army, graduated from the U. S. Military Academy in 1811; served during the War of 1812; the Mexican War; the Civil War, and was Superintendent of the U. S. Military Academy from 1833 to 1839. The Colonel's father, Rene Edward de Russy, was a Colonel in the Army, and saw action in the Civil War and Indian Campaigns. An uncle, Isaac Dennison de Russy, Brigadier General, participated in the Civil War; the Indian Campaigns, and the Spanish American War.

There are fourteen graduates of the Military Academy from the immediate de Russy family, and there are a total of 28 members of the family in the military service, including cousins and cousins by marriage.

Colonel de Russy's uncle, Maj. Gen. Gustavus Adolphus de Russy, was honored in having Battery de Russy at Ft. Monroe, Va., named after him. His grandfather, Brigadier General Rene Edward de Russy, had Ft. de Russy at Honolulu, T. H., named in his honor.

Colonel de Russy is survived by his widow, Mrs. Marjorie Hyland de Russy, three sons, two daughters, and five grandchildren. All of Colonel de Russy's sons and his son-in-law served in World War II. Surviving sons are: Maj. Rene Edward de Russy, jr., presently on duty at the Seattle Port of Embarkation, Wash.; Col. John H. de Russy, presently on duty as Senior Military Attache at Budapest, Hungary; Capt. Rene Amedeo de Russy, presently on duty as an Air Force student at the Georgia Institute of Technology, Atlanta, Ga. Surviving daughters include Mrs. A. B. Elliott, whose husband is presently on inactive status with the rank of Commander in the U. S. Navy Reserve, and who was on active duty during World War II with the U. S. Navy. The second surviving daughter is Marjorie Hyland de Russy who is presently with the U. S. Civil Service on duty at Maxwell AFB, Ala.

Funeral services were held at Our Lady Chapel, Presidio of San Francisco on 31 March, and Colonel de Russy was laid to rest with full military honors in the San Francisco National Cemetery at the Presidio, San Francisco, Calif.

home, 21 West 58th St., New York, N. Y. Services and burial were held at the West Point Cemetery on 6 Apr. Surviving relatives include his widow, Dorothy Rudd Lynch, and his daughter, Mrs. Robert M. Strong, jr.

From his cadet days at the U. S. Military Academy, Class of 1901, until his retirement for physical disability, Col. "Jimmy" Lynch packed into his 42 years of military service a brilliant and varied career equalled by few Army officers.

On graduation from West Point he was assigned to the 15th Cavalry and served as a second lieutenant in Capt. John J. Pershing's troop during the Philippine Insurrection. Later he was assigned to the 14th Cavalry, saw service in Cuba and various posts in California and the West as a first lieutenant and captain. Then came his second tour in the Philippines with service at Camp Stotsenberg, followed by many stations along the Mexican border until the start of World War I when, as a Lt. Colonel, Infantry N.A., Colonel Lynch left Camp Dix with the 347th Infantry for service in France.

After the war Colonel Lynch was Inspector General at Camp Dix and was transferred in 1920 to the Quartermaster Corps, serving as assistant QM of the 2d Service Command. He was a graduate of the Army Industrial College and a member of the War Planning and Training Division of the New York General Depot. Next came his third tour of duty in the Philippines and finally commanding officer of the 8th Corps Area General Depot, when in September 1938 Colonel Lynch's failing health forced him to leave the Army he loved so well, and had served so devotedly and efficiently during his long career.
